Chapter 1 by Kamurin Kizutsukemasu

Every turtle goes through a phase, their whole life. They always go so slow, whenever they get seen. Their really shy. Nobody knows why, but the turtle does. That's what this story will tell you.

Chapter 2 by Kamurin Kizutsukemasu

The turtle went out for a walk at 25 mph when he started to slow down, he realized their was a man stalking him. He automatically was at a slow pace of 3 to 4 mph. Barely keeping a good pace, his foot slips every other second. He hated when this happened. but glad not to get called fast. That was a offence in the turtle world.

He was ready to run again. But they wouldn't stop running along side him, he was angered ready to bolt forwards. That's when it happened he bolted forwards at a top speed of 100 mph. He was finally making it passed the barriers. The barriers of a turtle, he was going faster then the cars beside him. Then took a sharp left, towards his work place, he made into the building with a coffee in his suitcase. It was shaped as a present, he thought it was cool.

His co-workers were surprised of him getting there early. There was a lot of humans on the way to work. He didn't tell them about it. When the workers passed they looked at his watch, it showed his miles per hour. They were all amazed. He then said, "I was going 100 mph. Also how fast he did it, he was really fast. They all gasped. He then said,
